Naval Battle Off Trondheim

LONDON (CP)—Reuter's News Agency tonight carried reports that a naval battle between British and German units was in progress off the Norwegian port of Trondheim.

Reuter's attributed the reports to the Finnish radio which, in turn, quoted the Aalesund radio.

It was added that British planes attacked German warships and German aircraft in Trondheim fjord.

French Ships Safe

PARIS (AP)—The French Admiralty denied tonight a report attributed to the German radio to the effect that the French warship Dunkerque was damaged and the Foch sunk in the North Sea.

Watch Westwall

LONDON (CP)—Speculation grew in London and Paris tonight that Hitler may be planning to strike along the western front.

It was learned that British and French soldiers were on the alert ready to meet a German attack aimed at diverting Allied strength from the north, where Germany is trying desperately to cling to its grip on Norway.

Planes Carry Troops?

STOCKHOLM (CP-Havas)—Unconfirmed reports tonight said German troops were being landed in Norway from planes and that 20,000 German troops were now assembled in southern Norway.

1,000 BODIES!

LONDON (AP)—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Göteborg, Sweden, tonight said that German transports driven aground in last night's battle off the Swedish coast were blazing fiercely and that 1,000 bodies were reported floating on the water.

As many as six of 10 German transports were reported sunk by the British in this action.

Jugoslavs Threatened

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Leaflets warning Yugoslavians "Do not resist Germany if you value your freedom" showered down in the streets of Belgrade tonight.

Police said the leaflets were thrown from speeding automobiles. Many persons were arrested and released. Later the police said they had no clue concerning the identity of the distributors.

NAZIS CLAIM HIT

BERLIN (AP)—DNB, official German news agency, this evening claimed that German bombing planes damaged a British aircraft carrier in the North Sea late this afternoon. The agency's report said a bomb of heavy calibre struck the British ship.

(No British confirmation or denial of the report was immediately available.)

Chaplain on Rodney

Captain the Rev. A. E. Hendy, who left Victoria a few months ago to enter service with the Royal Navy, is chaplain aboard H.M.S. Rodney, which was bombed by German planes during the course of yesterday's big naval battle.

Friends here received an interesting letter yesterday from Capt. Hendy, who was formerly priest at Christ Church Cathedral, describing his experiences aboard the battleship.

Ship Aground

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The 5,482-ton Greek freighter George M. Livanos ran hard aground early today on Willamette River rocks at the end of Portland's St. Johns Bridge. The 441-foot craft, under charter for an Oriental lumber run, crashed through piling and small boats.

Pickford Comeback

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Mary Pickford, named "America's sweetheart" a quarter of a century ago, is returning to the movies. Friends, she said this afternoon, had persuaded her to try acting again after seven years of retirement. She will start in a picture to be started "as soon as arrangements now under way can be completed." She is 47.

The War Today

By GUY RHOADES

BRITAIN REPLIES

Britain smashed at Germany by sea today while Norway, recovering from the shock of Germany's assault two days ago, turned on her invaders and was reported to have routed them at three points.

President Carl Hambro of the Norwegian Parliament said in Stockholm that Norwegian troops were co-operating with British forces which had gone ashore in northern Norway.

RETAKEN

Dispatches reaching the Swedish capital said the Norwegians had retaken Hamar, 60 miles north of Oslo, ousted the Germans from Bergen, principal west coast port, and routed a retreating Nazi force on the railway running from Narvik, beyond the Arctic Circle, to the Swedish border.

The view was expressed that Norway's little army was strong enough to overcome German forces already ashore, provided no more were permitted to arrive.

CAUSE FOR CHEERS

The job of keeping reinforcements away was the British navy's and reports from various sources indicated it was doing it thoroughly.

Winston Churchill told a cheering House of Commons that Germany had lost four cruisers in the battle that started Monday. He said the loss was more than half the German fleet's cruiser strength before the engagement.

ALLIES LOSSES

Premier Paul Reynaud told the Chamber of Deputies Germany had lost four cruisers, 12 troop transports, one destroyer and one submarine.

Reynaud said the French navy suffered no losses, but sinking of three destroyers, announced by Churchill, brought British losses to four vessels of that class, three sunk and one forced aground at Narvik.

PROTECTIVE SEIZURE

The First Lord announced that Royal Navy units had seized the Faroe Islands in the North Atlantic halfway between Scotland and Iceland. The islands, property of Denmark in peacetime, were taken over to prevent Germany getting them. They will be given back to Denmark after her independence, destroyed by a Nazi invasion at the same time as Norway was attacked, has been restored.

BLUNDER

Churchill said he and the Admiralty believed Hitler had made a "gigantic blunder" when he extended the war into the north, giving Britain and France a chance to tighten their blockade.

Hitler also extended his line of communications 1,000 miles, and the First Lord said the Allies did not intend that he should supply his Norwegian forces "with impunity."

OCCUPATION DENIED

The First Lord denied that British forces had reoccupied any of the Norwegian ports which fell to Germany, but he did not contradict Hambro's statement that British troops were in Norway nor reports that Norwegians had won some fights on their own account.

Norwegians Mass To Retake Trondheim

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Norwegian forces have recaptured the port of Bergen from German invaders, the Norwegian commander at the city reported today by wireless, and are massing for an attempt to wrest Trondheim, farther up the west coast, from the enemy.

German troops are being concentrated around Trondheim in the expectation that the Norwegian attack will come shortly, he reported.

Norwegian troops were said to be advancing from the north in the hope of cutting off German troops operating between Trondheim and the Swedish border.

Following the commander's report on Bergen, other sources reported German planes had dropped light bombs as they circled the Kongsvinger railway station.

(In the House of Commons at London Winston Churchill told of attacks by British "torpedo-carrying aircraft" on German ships in Trondheim harbor.)

'Britain to Sink All Nazi Ships In Kattegat'—Churchill

Germans Lose 12 Ships, 4 Cruisers; Naval Losses Renown Bombed, Rodney Damaged

Explanation Needed

LONDON (CP)—Winston Churchill today told the House of Commons that "great losses have been suffered by the German navy" in a continuing air and naval battle touched off by Germany's invasion of Norway.

"We have greatly gained by what has occurred in Scandinavia and northern waters in the strategic and military sense," he said.

"At the present nearly a dozen ships, some of large tonnage, have been sunk or captured either in the Skagerrak or the Kattegat or in attempting to bring supplies to forces landed at Narvik," Mr. Churchill declared.

Of Britain's losses, Mr. Churchill told the House of the sinking of the destroyers Glowworm and Gurkha and the damaging of the battleship Rodney and the cruiser Aurora by bombing. He said the British destroyer Zulu had sunk a German submarine and described a running fight between the Renown and two German cruisers in a blizzard.

He promised the House that "all German ships in the Skagerrak and the Kattegat will be sunk."

BLOCKADE STRENGTHENED

He contended that by invading Norway "Hitler has doubled the efficiency of the Allied blockade."

"We have suffered from nothing in our blockade so much as from the accused (Norwegian) corridor now closed for ever," he said.

"We shall take what we want of the Norwegian coast now with an enormous increase in the efficiency of our blockade."

Mr. Churchill warned that "Hitler has created a whole series of commitments on the Norwegian coast" for which he now will have to fight against the Allies who have "vastly superior naval forces and are able to transport them to the scenes of action more easily than he can."

"The very recklessness with which Hitler and his advisers have cast the fate of the German navy on wild waters may be a prelude to 'far larger events' which depend on the land," Mr. Churchill said.

"We have probably arrived at the first crux of the war."

NAZIS CRUISER LOSS

He declared that "four German cruisers—nearly half of their total pre-war strength and much more than their existing strength—have been sunk."

After commenting on Germany's being "deeply mutilated" in the cruiser element, Mr. Churchill said "a number of German destroyers, together with some U-boats, have been destroyed—all since Sunday."

British submarines are "by no means asleep," Mr. Churchill said, for they "have taken a heavy toll" of German transport troop ships crossing to Scandinavia.

"We are not going to let the enemy supply their troops along those waters with impunity," he said.

Speaking "for myself," the First Lord said he considered Germany's Norwegian occupation "as great a strategic and political error as that which was committed by Napoleon in 1808 when he invaded Spain."

"I cannot see any counter advantage which he (Hitler) has gained, except the satisfaction of another exercise of brutal lust, of unbridled power."

As the House cheered, Mr. Churchill observed "we certainly find no reason to deter us from entering on any further peril that might lie before us."

"We feel ready to encounter the utmost malice of the enemy and to achieve a ready victory in what is a world cause."

STOUT FIGHT

Mr. Winston Churchill told the House the Norwegians "in their wild and mountainous country" should be able to maintain "vigorous and prolonged resistance" against the German invaders.

Leading up to his outline of the naval operations, he said the Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, shown by arrow, explains at a Berlin press conference why Germany undertook Scandinavian invasion at this time. He charged that the Allies would have occupied Norway and Denmark, so Germany did it first. (Acme radio-telephoto.)

German invasion of Norway and Denmark, "long and elaborately prepared," had been set in motion the last week of March, breaking a "strange, unnatural calm."

He asked the House's forgiveness of any small errors in his statement and noted that "the Nazi government was accustomed to press through all its channels a continuous flow of rumors."

The First Lord said that for several months past Britain had received information of large numbers of German merchant ships being fitted as transports and of numerous small vessels being assembled in various Baltic ports and also in mouths of the River Elbe.

The Netherlands, Denmark, Norway and Sweden all were equally liable to a sudden "brutal, capricious and in any case unprovoked attack," he said.

Mr. Churchill said which neutral would be selected as the victim remained inevitably a matter of speculation, but he asserted the Germans "have an obvious preference for striking at the weak rather than the strong."

IN THE LOTTERY

"In the small hours of Monday morning," he went on, "we learned that Norway and Denmark had drawn the unlucky numbers in this sinister lottery."

"Even those neutrals who had done the most to placate Germany and had been the greatest aid to her, could not feel any sense of security that they would not be attacked without any reason or without any warning, and speedily overrun and reduced to bondage and pillaged of all their property, especially of all eatables."

The House laughed at this statement.

"There has been no greater impediment in the blockade of Germany than the Norwegian corridor," Mr. Churchill said, after remarking that Denmark had special "reasons for apprehension, not only because she was nearest and weakest, but because she had a recent treaty with Germany guaranteeing her from all molestation."

"His Majesty's government has been extremely reluctant to incur reproaches for even technical violations of international law, but it had been decided 'at last' to interrupt the Norwegian ore traffic and 'make it come out in the open sea.'"

Up to then, he said, the British navy was forced to watch "an endless procession" of German and neutral ships which respect for international law forbade them to touch.

He added that Germany "flouted" those same conventions in this war as in the last, and tried to make out "the invasion of Norway and Denmark was a consequence of our act in closing this corridor."

He declared that during the last war the British, French and United States governments "induced" Norwegians to mine their territorial water to prevent abuse by submarines.

"We have the most profound sympathy with the Norwegian people," the First Lord affirmed, and promised aid to "the best of our ability" since "their future and independence are bound up with the victory of the Allies."

Mr. Churchill stressed that it was "intolerable" to the Allies to watch ships passing down the Norwegian corridor "carrying iron ore to make shells which would 'strike down the young men of France and Britain in the campaign of 1941.'"

"If the Norwegian government had not been so very strict and severe in enforcing her neutrality against us," said the First Lord, "it would have been very easy to give them more timely and more support than is now possible," he went on.

NEUTRALS' ERROR

Coming to the naval operations, he said the fleet was cruising "to the south about the level of Bergen" when, on Monday afternoon, "it was continuously attacked by enemy aircraft."

A very heavy bomb fell on the battleship Rodney, but her decks, the First Lord said, "resisted it." Seven men—four officers and three sailors—were injured.

Mr. Churchill, saying the Rodney's "heavy armament deflected the blow," said that "so far as the structure of our ships of war is concerned, the incident must be regarded as satisfactory."

He said the cruiser Aurora was attacked unsuccessfully five times, while "the destroyer Gurkha, accompanying her, was hard hit and sank after 4½ hours and the crew rescued."

"The destroyer Zulu sank a German U-boat off the Orkneys," the First Lord said.

STARTED BY RENOWN

The Renown, one of the British battleships, opened fire at daybreak Tuesday morning," Mr. Churchill said, and added "after three minutes the enemy replied."

The ship was the German Hipper-class cruiser Scharnhorst, he said.

Action started at 18,000 yards, Mr. Churchill told the excited House.

After a further two minutes of firing a vertical column of smoke was observed rising from the Scharnhorst, he said.

After nine minutes of firing the Renown observed hits on the forward superstructure of the German vessel. She stopped firing and later her turret began firing "on local control."

The 10,000-ton cruiser Hipper "drew a smoke screen across the wounded warship," Mr. Churchill said.

As the Renown opened fire "on the Hipper, which turned away" both German ships "were now retiring at high speed."

"In the end I regret to say they succeeded in leaving us—the firing ceased at 25,000 yards when they became invisible," Churchill said.

REPORT DELAYED

He added that messages from the Renown broke off at the moment that "they became interesting," and "we never heard another word until a few hours ago."

He then disclosed there were no casualties on the Renown, although a shell had passed "through our ship above the water line without bursting."

He said something similar happened to the Exeter in the Graf Spee battle and showed "all Nazi workmanship is of a piece."

"A shell also went through the Renown's foremast, carrying away the main aerial," Mr. Churchill reported. He said the speed which the Scharnhorst maintained "was very great" and that the Renown had to push ahead at 24 knots with very heavy seas breaking over her turrets and guns.

NAZI CRUISERS BOMBED

A very determined attack was made on Wednesday by two waves of Royal Air Force planes of 12 planes each, Mr. Churchill said, in which two German cruisers were attacked and "one has not been seen since."

"There is no reason," said Mr. Churchill, "why a large portion of the crew of the Glowworm should not have been saved if the ordinary humanity of fighting men had been practiced by the enemy."

He said that on Monday morning it seemed as though the German forces which "had sunk the Glowworm would be caught between our forces in the north and the main home fleet, both of which were superior to it. However, they got away."

Of the 15 torpedo-carrying aircraft which attacked at Trondheim, Mr. Churchill said all 15 returned. When reconnaissance craft went to the scene "no cruiser was seen. Where one had been there was only a half mile long streak of oil. It looks as if the result had been obtained."

"We had hoped to catch a Hipper class cruiser which was reported to be there," the First Lord said, but "all we caught was a destroyer which was hit by a torpedo."

In recounting the tale of the British destroyers' attack on the Germans in Narvik, Mr. Churchill said the fighting was "worthy of any in British naval records."

"The destruction of store ships, crippling of the destroyer force and blowing up of a munitions ship which was perhaps intended

By Canadian Press

Winston Churchill today indicated that Britain defeated the German navy in a severe engagement without losing a warship above the category of destroyer.

While the First Lord of the Admiralty said the picture was not complete and that he hoped to have a further statement for the House of Commons shortly, he did not hesitate to announce the losses Britain suffered in inflicting severe damage on the Germans.

"Four German cruisers and a number of German destroyers together with several more U-boats have been destroyed, all since Sunday," he said. "Nearly a dozen ships, some of large tonnage, have been sunk or captured."

He listed one German submarine as sunk by the destroyer Zulu off the Orkneys.

Britain lost the destroyer Glowworm, sunk by two German destroyers, and the destroyer Gurkha, sunk by aerial bombs. (These were in addition to the destroyers Hardy and Hunter, which Prime Minister Chamberlain announced yesterday were grounded or sunk at Narvik.)

The battleship Rodney was hit by a bomb, with seven men injured, but the bomb was deflected by her armor and there was no important damage.

Two German shells pierced the battleship Renown during her battle with the German ships Scharnhorst and Hipper. The Renown suffered no casualties. The German craft managed to escape but the Scharnhorst was probably damaged.

An unofficial summary of the week's naval losses follows:

Germany: Cruisers—Bluecher, 10,000 tons, in the Oslo Fjord; Karlsruhe, 6,000 tons, at Kristiansand; Koln, 6,000 tons, off Bergen; Emden, 5,400 tons, in the Oslo Fjord.

Destroyers—One certain and three others, probable at Narvik; one in the Skagerrak.

Submarines—One off the Orkneys; "several" in other waters.

Transport ships—Rio Janeiro, 5,261 tons; Anatares, 2,500 tons, probably 10 or more altogether. (Premier Reynaud at Paris said 12 troop transports had been sunk.)

Merchant ships—Amais, 700 tons.

Ammunition supply ships—Ravensfeld (Rauenfels), 8,460 tons.

Britain:

Destroyers—Hunt, 1,335 tons; Hardy, 1,505 tons; Gurkha, 1,870 tons; Glowworm, 1,345 tons.

Norway:

Cruisers—Norge, 4,166 tons and Eidsvold, 4,166 tons.

Destroyer—Aeger, 597 tons.

Submarines—Two.

'18 NAZI SHIPS SUNK'—REYNAUD

PARIS (CP)—Germany has lost 18 ships, 12 of them troop transports, against four for Great Britain in the naval fighting off Norway, Premier Reynaud told the packed Chamber of Deputies today.

The Premier said German fleet losses also included four cruisers, one destroyer and one submarine. The cruisers represented one-tenth of Germany's total fleet tonnage, he said.

Hopes for an Allied victory are high, M. Reynaud said, because Germany, while obtaining "tactical success" at the start, made an "immense strategic error."

"There is no example in history to show," he told the deputies, "that a war operation undertaken with a decisive marine inferiority would not be ended by defeat."

He told the deputies and diplomats that "the battle of iron is continuing in Norway."

He termed Germany a "besieged nation" and he compared the Norwegian resistance to the Germans with the Belgian fight against the same invader in 1914.

War Warehouse

TORONTO (CP)—Mayor Ralph C. Day announced today after a meeting of the Toronto Board of Control and the Harbor Commission that buildings "to house some $25,000,000 worth of war equipment will be constructed almost immediately along the city's waterfront."

to turn Narvik into a Sebastopol or Gibraltar, has simplified the task which obviously might be among those which lie ahead," Mr. Churchill said.

NAZI RAIDERS FAIL

He said 60 German aircraft attacked Scapa Flow last night "without doing the slightest damage."

"The enemy lost six aircraft," he added, and then declared: "We are ready to fight this matter out at Scapa Flow."

Mr. Churchill said a cruiser was hit in the first air raid on Scapa Flow, which "necessitated several weeks of repair, but no more than that." Since then "up to the moment at which I am speaking there has been no vessel hit or damaged at Scapa Flow and no objective of the slightest military importance has been hit."

"I look forward to making another statement to Parliament very shortly," the First Lord said.

See other stories of sea battle and fighting in Norway on pages 2 and 3.

BRITISH OCCUPY FAROE ISLANDS

LONDON (CP)—Winston Churchill today announced Britain is occupying the Faroe Islands, midway between the Shetlands and Iceland. The islands belong to Denmark.

"The question of Iceland needs further consideration," the First Lord told the House of Commons, "but no German will be allowed to set his foot there with impunity."

He said the Faroes will be handed back to Denmark when she is liberated from "the foul thralldom into which she had been plunged by German aggression."

LEAVES SUSPENDED

PARIS (AP)—The French army, preparing against a possible German offensive on the western front, tonight suspended all army leaves.

Chase Heinkel

PARIS (CP-Havas)—A Royal Air Force pursuit plane today intercepted and drove off a German Heinkel-111 flying very high above the English Channel near Cape Gris-Nez, general headquarters of the R.A.F. in France announced.

The British pursuit ship attacked the enemy with all guns spitting. The German machine was last seen diving into the clouds, with black smoke streaming from its port motor.

Cape Gris-Nez lies southwest of Calais. It is the closest point on French territory to England.

No Plane Secrets Out

BERLIN (AP)—Informed sources said today German troops who occupied Oslo found 30 new American Curtiss planes which had not been completely assembled.

They said they would be studied for any possible information or new construction details.

(Aviation experts said there were no secrets of design and that no military secrets could be involved because the airplanes could not have been sent to Norway had there been.)

Norway Loses Subs

NEW YORK (AP)—Two Norwegian submarines have been sunk in action off the Norwegian coast, the French government wireless reported today in a broadcast received by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The Star-Ledger's entire first page was devoted to the war. Starting on column one the story ran up and down the front page to the bottom of column eight. It then continued on page two.

New War Thrust
To Boom Canada's
Farm, Pulp Output

By NORMAN MACLEOD

OTTAWA — A direct and hugely beneficial reaction upon Canadian economy is realized by federal officials to be the inevitable consequence of the dramatic events of the past 48 hours.

The Canadian lumbering and newsprint industries will share the gains resulting from the new situation with Canadian agriculture. Trade officials believe that not until the war is over will Norwegian lumber and newsprint—principal competitors of Canada's similar products—come upon the British and the American markets. Similarly, Danish exports to Britain of bacon, butter, eggs and cheese are looked upon as a thing of the past—with Canada's farmers now expected to supply the deficiency they leave.

PORK COMPETITION
ELIMINATED

One prominent official of the Department of Agriculture sized up the situation this way: "Nothing that has happened during the entire war so far is of even comparative importance to the Canadian farmer, so far as prospective prices for agricultural commodities are concerned, as the German occupation of Scandinavian Europe. Overnight the entire bacon, butter, eggs and cheese outlook changes completely. The first result of the new situation will be to raise the price of United States pork to the Canadian level. Now Canadian bacon and dairy produce will commence to move to the British market in volume."

STOCKING UP ON DANISH SUPPLIES

The Danish coup by Germany explained a number of the things that previously had been causing bewilderment and even dissatisfaction to officials of the Agricultural Department here. For some weeks it has been found impossible to move Canadian bacon overseas in volume, in spite of the bacon deal made shortly after the war commenced between the British and the Canadian governments. Now, however, the reason becomes obvious to officials here. It is realized that the authorities in the United Kingdom knew that a German offensive against Scandinavia was certain to come, and that they were simply taking all the foodstuffs that they could possibly secure from that source, with a view to both stocking up the British larder and also to leaving as little as possible for the German occupiers.

The strategy is recognized now as having been successfully carried out. Great Britain has huge stocks of foodstuffs removed from Scandinavia before the Germans occupied their present areas. Norwegian lumber and newsprint has been found in a ready market, so that no large stores will be found on hand by the German invaders. Furthermore, the food and industrial commodities that have been accumulating in Canada, the United States and elsewhere while Scandinavia has enjoyed a preference in the United Kingdom market, are now available to the Allies.

SEE RISING PRICES

It all means, officials realize, a major stimulus to Canada's war exports—a stimulus certain to be reflected in rising agricultural commodity prices.

Up to the present time farm prices in Canada have shown little tendency to soar as a result of the war. In fact, their course, if anything, has been downwards.

ACCUMULATIONS
BEING USED

No less an authority than the Minister of Agriculture himself, Hon. J. G. Gardiner, pointed out to the farmers of the country recently, however, that they should not expect anything other than lower prices during the first year of the war. The pattern of wartime farm prices, the minister emphasized, has always been thus. When war breaks out the belligerent nations generally have been preparing for it and have accumulated foodstuffs as an anticipatory measure. It is not until these stocks have to be replenished that prices begin to move.

In the present instance Great Britain had huge accumulations of wheat, bacon, beef, eggs, cheese and other agricultural stores, including tobacco. So long as Scandinavian sources of foodstuffs were available, the accumulation was able to continue, so far as dairy produce was concerned. From this time on, however, it is recognized that the British will be drawing upon their surplus stores. The events, which are generally interpreted as the opening move in Germany's widely-advertised spring offensive, are also regarded as the starting point in the climb

NO CHANGE IN TAX
LEVY AT DUNCAN

DUNCAN—Duncan's tax rate for 1940, established at this week's meeting of the city council, will be 40 mills, the same as last year. The rate will be levied against 100 per cent of taxable land values, and 30 per cent of improvement valuation. The general debt rate is 1.3 mill; schools, 13 mills (including a 1-mill rate for building funds, as asked for by the Consolidated School Board), general rate 26 2/3 mills. Highlights in the tax rate are the reduction in debt rate from 1 mill to 1.3 mill, and an increase in the general rate to cover increased cost of hospitalization and police.

The electric committee submitted a proposal for increased street lighting at a reduced rate of 4 1/2 cents per k.w.h. The cost will be $3,095, a $150 increase over last year.

The streets committee reported the purchase of 9,500 gallons of tarvis "B" for street improvements. A petition from property owners for a concrete sidewalk on the east side of Ypres Street from Coronation Avenue to Trunk Road was approved, and the work will be carried out under the local improvements by-law.

7 Raiders Down
At Scapa Flow

LONDON (CP)—The air ministry today announced seven German bombers were shot down last night over Scapa Flow.

The ministry said 19 German aircraft have been destroyed by British warplanes since Sunday and that the Royal Air Force has lost only six in that period.

The statement follows:

"Since the early morning of Sunday, April 7, all operational commands of the Royal Air Force have been intensively engaged in operations against the enemy.

"In addition to normal security and convoy protection patrols, reconnaissance aircraft have maintained close watch over the North Sea on the Norwegian coast and on German naval bases, with the result that much valuable information has been made available to our naval and air forces engaged with the enemy.

"On Sunday a bombing attack was launched against a strong enemy naval force off Horns Reef (a Danish promontory just north of Esbjerg).

"From dawn on Monday throughout the day extensive reconnaissance were carried out. In the evening an enemy attack on Scapa Flow was beaten off by five German bombers being shot down by our fighters.

"On Wednesday, British long-range fighters reconnoitred Norwegian airdromes which had been occupied by the enemy. In spite of heavy anti-aircraft fire, low-flying attacks were delivered, resulting in destruction of at least three aircraft.

"During the evening, repeated but abortive attacks on Scapa Flow and a convoy were successfully driven off. Four German bombers were shot down by our fighters and three by anti-aircraft gunfire, while two more were so damaged as to make their return extremely doubtful.

"In the course of these operations we have lost two flying boats, one reconnaissance aircraft and three bombers. No fighters have been lost.

"During the same period 19 German aircraft are confirmed as having been destroyed."

Norway Reports
Bergen Retaken

STOCKHOLM (AP)—A wireless message from the Norwegian commander at Bergen today reported that seaport had been recaptured from the German invaders.

Other sources reported German planes had circled the Kongsvinger railway station dropping light bombs.

Reports reaching Sweden said the Norwegians were blasting bridges to make German advances difficult and cut off German forces already in possession of Norwegian territory.

Norway, ordering her troops to co-operate with the Allies, was hastily fortifying every defence point and arming workers, members of rifles clubs, and military school pupils to help defend the nation.

The northern wing of Norway's army was ordered to make contact with British forces which evidently have already been landed or are about to be debarked near the Narvik zone, north of the Arctic circle.

The Norwegian troops fighting the German invaders there were credited with already having won decisive victories.

Reports from Lulea, in northern Sweden, said Norwegian troops had succeeded in destroying several sections of railway line around Narvik, cutting off the Germans' line of retreat. Another dispatch reported the recapture by the Norwegians of Hamar, north of Oslo, where the government first took shelter and which was evacuated under the invaders' first drive.

SURPRISE ATTACK

A Norwegian counter-attack to the east of Narvik took the Germans completely by surprise, Carl Hambro, president of the Norwegian Parliament said, asserting the enemy had retreated without firing a single shot.

Hambro said that four German planes were shot down during the Norwegians' early withdrawal movement before Elverum. Norwegian infantry subsequently succeeded in dynamiting the Fjoevir Bridge, which cut the German vanguard off from all sources of supply.

Other bridges were blown up in the invaders' rear and to the south of Hamar, he said, and the German spearhead was isolated.

According to his report, German planes constitute the only liaison between the isolated German infantry and their bases.

Norwegian land forces were said to have counter-attacked, stalled the German tide and then thrown the enemy into retreat.

Around Elverum, 100 Norwegian soldiers were credited with having stopped an enemy motorized detachment twice as strong.

Hambro said mobilization of the 6th Army Division, in northern Norway, was now completed.

GERMAN CRUISER
BOMBED—MISSING

LONDON (CP)—The crew of a reconnaissance plane which flew over Bergen yesterday at a height of 2,000 feet reported today that it had found no trace of a German cruiser reported attacked by the fleet air arm in a dusk raid on Tuesday.

An immense patch of oil about one mile long, covered the site of the attack, the crew said.

The plane's navigator added: "Bergen seemed to be a dead city. We saw no movement except for one or two tugs. No anti-aircraft defence was encountered."

By obtaining iodine from waste brines of the west coast, the United States has made itself independent in iodine supplies.

Canada May Feed Greenland

OTTAWA (CP)—As the nearest neighbor of Danish-ruled Greenland, the fate of that country in the light of German occupation of Denmark is of particular concern to Canada. Apart from all military considerations the question of supplying the population of Greenland with food and other essentials has to do with Canada.

Unless ships go to Greenland during the coming season of summer navigation the people will face starvation and Canada is the only country operating ships anywhere near Greenland. The Hudson's Bay Company's steamship Nascopie on its annual cruise to the Canadian Arctic passes within a few hundred miles of the Greenland shore.

Greenland in recent years has been closed to all but Danish ships. Its trade was a monopoly of the Danish crown. Occasionally the Canadian Arctic supply ship would pay a courtesy call at Greenland. Now Denmark, regarded as enemy territory, is subject to the Allied blockade and no ships from Danish ports will be permitted to cross the Atlantic.

The possibility of air attacks on Canada from ships entering northern waters or bases established in the sub-Arctic or Arctic regions frequently has been discussed, now causes little worry to defence authorities. Any danger there is, would be increased if Germany should attempt to seize Greenland as a result of the occupation of Denmark, but it has been stated from Berlin that the Nazis have no intention of moving against Greenland.

Greenland is the largest island in the world, except for Australia.

BERLIN TOLD
NAZIS VICTORS

BERLIN (AP)—This morning's newspapers unanimously featured what they described as a German victory over the British navy's attempts to land forces in Norway.

Adolf Hitler's Voelkischer Beobachter carried the streamer: "English and French landing fleet destroyed."

The German version, as given in today's communique from the German high command, follows:

"In the west there was no important event.

"During the afternoon of April 10 German troops debarked at Bornholm (Danish island) without incident. The day passed calmly for units engaged in Denmark. During April 10 territories reached by the German troops were methodically occupied and enlarged.

"Elverum, situated 25 miles (about 15 miles) east of Hamar (Norway), was occupied during the morning of April 10.

"Order reigns at Oslo. All fortifications in Oslo Fjord are in German hands and are occupied by them. As with other Norwegian coastal defences, they were reorganized with a view to defence. At Oslo Norwegian military authorities agreed actively to participate in defence against British and French airplanes.

"At Narvik, as has already been announced, British ships attempted to enter the port. In the course of the defence, which was crowned with success, three enemy destroyers were destroyed and another seriously damaged.

"The reinforcing of German troops in Norway is being carried out methodically.

"Contrary to lying English reports, Bergen and Trondheim are firmly held by Germans. No where have attempts to attack occurred.

"A British destroyer was hit by large bombs. An anti-aircraft battery and a battery of searchlights in the Scapa Flow region were disabled by bombs which reached their objective.

"British pursuit planes repeatedly attacked German reconnaissance planes, but without success.

"A British pursuit plane of the Hawker-Hurricane type was shot down before the Shetland Islands. Two of our planes are reported missing.

"German pursuit planes have carried out flights to inspect Norway and the western coast of Denmark, and they assured the security, by their great number, of Norwegian coastal territory against enemy air attacks.

"Enemy airplanes were seen only on the western Norwegian coast, where the Stavanger airdrome, in which were German aviation units, was attacked by isolated British planes, which made a deep penetration, but without success."

BBC JAMMED

NEW YORK (AP) — An unidentified station today "blacked out" British news broadcasts from London, including a short-wave broadcast of the speech in the House of Commons of Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty.

The NBC short-wave station reported that reception, up to the moment of the first "jamming," about 6:30 a.m. (P.S.T.), had been excellent. Then a buzzing noise blanketed the British signals.

The "jamming" occurred again as the London station started news of Churchill's address.

NBC engineers said this was caused by another station broadcasting on the same frequency.

Reports Awaited
From Norway Ports

LONDON (CP) — Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, told the Commons today that British forces had not reoccupied Norwegian ports. This left uncertain the situation at Oslo, Bergen and Trondheim as far as British action was concerned. Informed naval sources previously had warned that there was no confirmation of success there, though Charles J. Hambro, Speaker of the Norwegian parliament, had said in Stockholm that Bergen and Trondheim had been retaken.

Britons could only put two and two together as far as news of any expeditionary force to Norway was concerned. At Stockholm Hambro said Norway's northern forces were co-operating fully with British forces against the German invasion. But there was no official announcement that any such force had yet been landed.

NAZI TROOPSHIP SUNK WITH 160

LONDON (CP) — A Reuters news agency dispatch from Stockholm said today the German troopship Antares, 2,593 tons, was sunk last night off the west coast of Sweden. The vessel was said to have struck a mine.

News of the sinking was brought by 34 survivors, who landed at the Swedish port of Lysekil, the dispatch stated.

The number of casualties aboard the Antares was estimated at 160.

Among the survivors were several cavalry and air force officers, who were placed under "military guard."

Election Recount

REGINA (CP) — A recount of votes cast in the Maple Creek federal constituency in the March 26 election was started this afternoon under direction of J. C. Hosie, returning officer. The application was made to Judge A. G. McKinnon by E. C. Leslie, acting on behalf of John McCullough, agent for H. H. Kemper, C.C.F. candidate.

Voting in the constituency which elected C. R. Evans, Liberal, was announced as: Evans 5,135, Kemper 3,106, F. E. Wright, National Government 3,182.

CANADIAN TROOPS LEARNING FRENCH

By SAM ROBERTSON
ALDRISHTON, Eng. (CP) — When the Canadian Active Service Force moves to France the men will know an "ouf" is French for "egg" and not just the sound a fellow makes when a packmule hoofs him in the stomach.

More than 2,500 members of the First Division are taking a simplified course in conversational French, and no doubt others will follow. They are being taught after training hours by fellow soldiers and a little machine called a "linguaphone."

The night classes were inaugurated with the warm approval of Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the division. They are under the direction of Hughes L. de Martigny of Montreal, associate director of educational services for Canada's forces overseas. The educational services were organized by the Canadian Legion War Services in conjunction with the Canadian Association for Adult Education.

The Linguaphone Institute helped get the scheme going by donating 100 of its miniature gramophones.

The course, in 15 lessons and embracing 3,000 words, is teaching the men French through the association of objects with sound. It is the way a child first learns to talk.

When the call went out for volunteers to act as group leaders, 100 officers and men answered. Most of them are French-Canadians, but there is a scattering of English.

Norwegian Forces Fight Off Nazis On Land as British Navy Drives

STOCKHOLM (CP) — The president of the Norwegian Parliament, Carl Hambro, announced today that Norway's forces now are co-operating fully with British forces against the German invasion.

Hambro, in Stockholm on an undisclosed mission, made the announcement after communicating with the Norwegian government, which has established headquarters at Elverum, 20 miles from the Swedish frontier.

A German advance eastward from Narvik, northern Norwegian port, already has been reported. Hambro said, for a time seat of the government, recaptured, Hambro said.

Hambro informed the Norwegian legations in Helsinki and Stockholm that offers of volunteers would be gratefully accepted and that instructions would be sent soon to speed their entry to help against the German invasion.

ARREST PRO-NAZI COMMANDER — Instructions to co-operate with the British forces were issued after the Norwegian northern commander, Col. Sundlo, had been ordered under arrest for co-operating with the German and Major Omdahl appointed to head the Norwegian forces in the Narvik region.

Taken by surprise, German troops attempting to advance along the railway east from Narvik were routed before they had time to form battle lines. Hambro declared the Germans retreated without firing a shot.

The displaced Norwegian commander was a close friend of Major Vidkun Quisling, Norwegian Nazi, who proclaimed himself head of a new government in Oslo after the German invasion.

Hambro said that German forces near Hamar, 60 miles north of Oslo, had been isolated from other contingents, except for communication by air.

At Elverum, where King Haakon and Premier Johan Nygaardsvold told the German minister of Norway's determination to resist the German invasion, all was quiet today after a German thrust into the region had been repulsed last night.

The German high command communicate today, conflicting with this report, said Elverum was captured yesterday.

In London, Reuters' news agency quoted the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter as reporting the Norwegian government transferred from Elverum to Nybergund, about 15 miles from the Swedish border.

(This information, however, said King Haakon was staying at Elverum, southwest of Nybergund.)

TROOPSHIP SUNK — Royal Navy forces, attempting to keep the Germans from landing supplies or reinforcements in Norway, were said meanwhile to have intercepted 10 large troopships, sinking at least five, setting one afire, damaging at least one other and driving one into haven in Sweden.

(Havas news agency said the British Navy had sunk 12 of 20 German troop transports which they attacked yesterday at the entrance to the Kattegat.)

The newspaper Svenska Dagbladet reported Narvik, Norwegian ore-shipping port, retaken by the British and the German garrison there dispersed after a futile attempt to flee into Sweden.

(The German high command called this a "false English report.")

At Elverum, meanwhile, Premier Johan Nygaardsvold issued a proclamation declaring Norway could not submit to German demands that she become a protectorate, and King Haakon, declaring his faith in his people's will to fight, co-operated.

The King said: "I adhere fully to the appeal published by the government, and I am convinced the entire people is with me in the decisions taken."

Norwegian Foreign Minister Kaalund Koht, asked how his government considered Britain's declaration that Norway was now her ally, responded:

"We are at war with Germany, thereby in alliance with others at war with Germany. Besides that, we have concrete offers of assistance from Britain and France."

Koht declared Norway was "determined to do everything" to stay free of German rule.

CHECK TROOPSHIPS —

Fort Balaerne, in the outer part of Oslo fjord, was said to have inflicted heavy damage on German troop transports attempting to reach Oslo.

Despite a German aerial bombardment and demands by Major Vidkun Quisling, self-proclaimed head of a Norwegian Nazi government, for surrender, the fort was reported still resisting.

The fortress at Horten, down the fjord from Oslo, was reported to have surrendered, however. It was outside of Horten Tuesday that the 5,400-ton German cruiser Emden was sunk in a battle with the Olaf Trygvasson, largest of Norway's new warships, in which the Norwegian minesweeper Rauma also joined.

There was no further information on reports that British warships, having forced Oslo fjord, were threatening to shell the German-held Norwegian capital unless it surrendered.

Three persons were said to have been killed and many others injured when panicky residents of Oslo stampeded avenues of escape in their hasty exodus.

About half the 250,000 population had fled before the Nazis occupied the city.

Although the thunder of a sea battle was heard for four hours from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. yesterday, no British cruisers or destroyers were seen, leading to conjecture here that the whole attack was made by submarines which slipped under mine barriers to challenge the Germans in the Skagerrak.

Shore observers said many Germans were rescued from sinking ships and the bodies of many more were washed ashore.

RAIL FLIGHT STOPPED —

In the action at Narvik, above the Arctic Circle, newspaper reports here said retreating German troops attempted to cross the frontier into Sweden aboard a train on the iron ore railway linking Swedish mines with the Norwegian port.

According to these accounts, Norwegians ripped the rails out at a point where a derailment would have plunged the Germans to certain death. Bailed, they said, the Germans abandoned the train and scattered through the countryside with Norwegian soldiers in pursuit.

Swedish travelers reaching here from Norway said they encountered the thick of fighting on the highway between Hamar and Elverum.

About 200 Germans, supported by followers of Major Vidkun Quisling, were firing from behind a barricade of overturned buses.

Resisting them, they said, were Norwegian soldiers, among whom were many still in civilian clothes and with no equipment except shotguns.

Kurt Brauer, German minister to Norway, who made clear Berlin's demands before the King and the Premier issued their proclamations of defiance.

From scattered parts of Norway reports came of progressing Norwegian mobilization, with many civilians and Swedish volunteers.

Carl Hambro declared here that if the Germans entrenched themselves solidly in Norway it would be a difficult problem to eject them.

ROYAL TRAIN BOMBED —

Describing the government's escape from Oslo, he said a special train carrying the King, cabinet

ALLIES TO GET NEW U.S. PLANES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States war department has cleared the way for future large-scale deliveries of American-made fighting planes to Britain and France by releasing for export three of the latest model pursuit craft.

Coinciding with the spectacular new turn in the war, manufacturers were told they were free to negotiate foreign contracts for the Lockheed P-38, Bell P-39 and Curtiss P-40.

All are described as very fast planes designed especially to cope with bombers and fight off enemy pursuit craft.

Official authority to sell the planes abroad came after two weeks of negotiations by which the air corps agreed to accept later deliveries of the same models, with improvements.

The agreement was the first break in a long delay by the Allied purchasing mission in placing contracts for aircraft and engines estimated to cost $1,000,000,000.

Though the Allies were represented as especially eager to obtain the most advanced fighters as quickly as possible to reinforce their own air defenses, aviation quarters said possibly a year would elapse before they would be coming off assembly lines in substantial numbers.

MAY TRY DIVERSION —

It was generally feared here that the Germans—apparently receiving a setback from Allied forces around Norway—would try to create a new "diversion" by invading Holland or Belgium.

No large-scale movement of German troops near the frontier has been reported in the past two days, but it is known that motorized divisions have been in place on the border since the end of the Polish invasion.

At several points on the border, however, German troops have cut passages through the woods, as if to clear a path for motorized forces.

Nazis Prepare On Moselle Front

PARIS (CP-Havas) — German preparations indicating an attack soon were observed at various points on the Rhine-Moselle front today.

An authoritative military source said:

"Events occurring in northern Europe should not cause us to forget the front between the Moselle and the Rhine. This front may flame up from one day to the next. At various points we have observed preparations which may presage an attack."

Meanwhile, War Minister Edouard Daladier conferred this morning with Gen. Gamelin, Allied commander-in-chief, and Gen. Maxime Weygand, commander-in-chief of the French forces in the Near East.

Also present were Air Minister Laurent Eynac, Gen. Alphonse Georges, commander-in-chief of the land forces in northeastern France, and Gen. Victor Vaullemin, commander-in-chief of the air force.

This morning's communique from the French high command said:

"A calm night on the Lorraine and Alsace front. Two German reconnaissance planes were shot down at the beginning of the morning of April 11 (today) by our pursuit aircraft."

On the Rhine-Moselle front, despite signs of coming activity, infantry activity was at a minimum in the last 24 hours.

Before the German planes came over this morning, air activity had been reduced by bad weather conditions; but three or four German reconnaissance groups flew over northern and eastern France.

The French admiralty denied a German radio report that a French destroyer had been sunk in the North Sea.

Full Defence Preparations Along Holland's Border

AMSTERDAM (CP-Havas) — The Dutch army today, to all intents, was on a war footing and defence positions were occupied along the whole eastern frontier, where for the past two days—since the invasion of Denmark and Norway—unceasing troop movements have been reported.

Completion of necessary preparations to stop a possible German invasion was seen in the fact that authorities today reopened the railway lines to goods traffic, although maintaining restrictions on passenger travel.

PEOPLE CALM

The evacuation of Arnheim, Nijmegen and other frontier towns was reliably reported here. Schools and hospitals were evacuated first. Meanwhile, the Netherlands' population, going through its third crisis since the beginning of hostilities, took calmly the cancellation of leaves and other military precautions.

In addition to the evacuation of frontier areas, the following other steps were reported: Highways and ports were placed under close guard. At several points, particularly Limburg, automobile traffic was completely stopped.

Barricades were placed by Dutch troops on the roads at all strategic points, and explosives were put in position on all possible routes of invasion.

Telephone communications were interrupted for several hours last night at various frontier areas.

These precautions stressed strongly the Netherlands' fear that the German high command may try to repeat the Schleffen Plan, which was only partially carried out in the last war by the invasion of Belgium.

The use of that plan—a flanking drive through the low countries to France—is generally considered to be the German high command's only way out, in view of Germany's geographic position, and above all the existence of the Siegfried and Maginot Lines which prevent a direct attack against French territory.

Napoleon and Hitler

MR. WINSTON CHURCHILL COMPARES

Hitler's invasion of Norway with Napoleon's invasion of Spain in 1808—both strategic and political errors. The aptness of the parallel will probably manifest itself before this war is very much older. A cramping egotism in the "Little Corporals" nature—a mental vice which had begun to grow on him rapidly as he envisioned the dethronement of the Spanish Bourbons at the beginning of the last century—fatally narrowed his outlook and led him to commit a blunder which proved irretrievable. In his contempt for the rules of Spain, Napoleon forgot the Spanish people. The Corsican had not counted on the rising at Cadiz in the early summer of 1808, to be followed by a series of historical rebuffs in which eventually he met his great opponent, and finally his conqueror, in the person of Wellington. For seven years afterward, the Europe which Napoleon had virtually in the palm of his hand when he embarked on his Spanish venture settled the larger account decisively at Waterloo.

The parallel between Napoleon and Hitler, of course, is expressed in their desire for power. But Hitler began with a series of pious declarations of peaceful intent. He assured the nations of the world that the government of which he took charge in 1933 would live up to the various promises made by its predecessors. It was not long, however, until he adopted an intensive form of propaganda—bearing, perhaps, some resemblance to Napoleon's "correspondence"—which resulted in the gradual exposure of his general scheme. From the reoccupation of the Rhineland, the annexation of Austria, the absorption of Czechoslovakia, down to the invasion of Poland, the head of the Nazi Reich naturally felt that all was well. But on last September 3 he received his first challenge: Since then his plans have had to undergo serious readjustment. Seven months have gone by and his compatriots have been living on victories manufactured largely by the Herr Doktor Goebbels in his propaganda factory at Berlin.

Like Napoleon, who forgot the Spanish people; Hitler evidently thought an invasion of Norway would present him with a command of the northern Atlantic, just as Napoleon expected to command a larger share of coastline fronting the southern Atlantic by the subjugation of Spain. Britain spoiled the plans of the Corsican corporal; she is now applying the same formula to the schemes of the Austrian corporal—whose thralldom of Europe eventually will be replaced by decency, order and mutual trust. Well may Mr. Churchill say today that Adolf Hitler has made the mistake of his career; well may he promise the dictator of the Third Reich that "we feel ready to encounter the utmost malice of the enemy and to achieve a real victory in what is a world cause."

Not the Time

WITH THE WAR SPREADING, AND our own country facing financial problems that will test our public solvency and the very foundations of our economic system, the Victoria City Council reverts to its hobby of recent years, toying with proposals to scrap the local street car system and replace it with a motor bus system.

It may be argued that our local transportation system has long needed modernizing. The time to have done this, however, was during the couple of years preceding the war when the City Council was dallying with the idea. The time, most certainly, is not now when we are being called upon to mobilize all our resources and energies behind the national war effort.

A transportation change-over would involve not only displacing labor and scrapping equipment we have managed to endure in more propitious times without any dire effects, but it would involve a large expenditure of capital, either public or private, in purchases that would add to our foreign exchange difficulties, already pressing enough.

Sometimes, we fear some people in authority fail to appreciate what a serious business we are faced with in this war, on the economic as well as on the military front.

Germany and Russia

ONE SCHOOL OF THOUGHT IN GREAT Britain does not propose to be dissuaded from the view that the Russo-German nonaggression pact negotiated between April and August of last year has many more sinister implications than the progress of events appears to suggest. Refusal to recognize this agreement as an important part of the challenge to the democracies, or so it is argued, would be as foolish as for Germany to refuse to believe in the existence of an alliance between Great Britain and France. In other words, without maintaining due regard for the significance of the Berlin-Moscow axis, Britain might find it difficult, if not impossible, to plan a vital part of her strategy.

The fact cannot be ignored, of course, that the pact which startled the world last summer is being used to cover two vast subjects: First, the territorial ambitions of Russia and Germany, as militaristic powers; secondly, a whole field of political religion. To what extent the original scheme of expansion has been tempered by the peace forced on Finland—as far as Russia is concerned—only time will tell. Germany still has hopes of victory over the Allies and all that might well go with it. It is becoming increasingly obvious, moreover, that the Reich has begun to use the Comintern organization and the old Communist movement as instruments of propaganda where it is considered they could work damage against the Allies. An intensive application of the formula has been tried in France, where, incidentally, it is making much of the government's action against Communist deputies and their sympathizers. The arrest in Paris yesterday, for example, of 22 alleged propagandists—believed to be attached to a "red general staff"—is an indication of what is feared.

Nor do British diplomats underestimate the amount or quality of the information which reaches Moscow from Communist agents in all parts of the world. The Russian government is considered one of the best informed. Its diplomatic missions in many cases know every detail of labor organizations in the countries to which they are accredited. In this way, therefore, the new political religion which Germany is assisting to create becomes a curious mixture of up-to-date Stalinism and extreme Left Wing Nazism—the ever-present struggle of political religions being one in which almost all the nations are involved.

It is well known, too, that the Nazi Party is divided into two groups: A majority tends toward the Right and is not enthusiastic about the Russo-German alliance going beyond a mere economic or military understanding. A minority group, however, tends to the far Left. This group is better organized and well led; the former is at sixes and sevens and has poor leadership; but Herr Hitler is a supporter of the minority. Only time will reveal, of course, just how harmonious is the understanding between the head of the Nazi Reich and his ideological rival at the Kremlin.

What Next?

WHILE GERMANY IS BUSY TRYING to prevent her latest venture from conversion into a major disaster, it is scarcely likely that the Nazi High Command will make a definite move against the Westwall or try to create a diversion in Belgium or Holland—or both. But in this most unpredictable of all wars there is ample evidence that the Allies do not propose to leave anything to chance. For if the situation in Norway shall eventually mean the stoppage of Swedish ore supplies to Germany, or if the full import of the losses at sea shall percolate to the German people, still another "coup" will perhaps be necessary to control what Lord Halifax suggested may be "some internal weakness in Germany."

It is inconceivable, in the light of the events of the last three days, that the Nazi hierarchy will feel disposed to extend the battle line down into southeastern Europe. The Baltic states, of course, do not seem to be able to make up their minds to joint action to forestall what has happened in Denmark and Norway, but the strategic and political blunder to which Mr. Churchill referred in the House of Commons today may stiffen their attitude. They do not have to rely on Propaganda Minister Goebbels for their accounts of what has transpired since last Monday. Nor is it to be supposed, incidentally, that Signor Mussolini—who wields considerable influence in the Mediterranean—is finding the news of much help to him in the formation of his future policy.

Income Tax . . . Sharply Up

From Winnipeg Free Press
One estimate is that the Canadian government proposes to raise between $200,000,000 and $250,000,000 extra in taxation this year. Such a figure means an increase of almost 50 per cent in existing federal tax burdens. Consolidated taxation receipts in the fiscal year 1937-38 amounted to $448,000,000, in which the chief items were $138,000,000 from the sales tax and $120,000,000 from the income tax. Customs and excise together amounted to about another $145,000,000. The kind of problems the government must face is how to increase these taxes and at the same time find new sources of revenue. Sales, customs and excise taxes already stand at high levels, and some of them at higher rates may reduce the revenue obtained instead of increasing it.

It is obvious, therefore, that we are going to see a sharp increase in the income tax. Nobody need imagine that this can be done by "soaking the rich." The rich must bear their due share of the increases, but the amount obtainable in the higher brackets is much exaggerated in the popular mind. In Britain, where a gap of about $1,500,000,000 has to be filled by taxation as a result of the war, it is estimated that complete confiscation of all incomes above $2,000 a year would add only $60,000,000 to the treasury. It is in the middle and lower income brackets that the British Chancellor of the Exchequer is going hunting for more money; and something of the same kind will be needed in Canada.

If Canada over-borrows, it will at once set inflation going; and the resultant rises in price levels and the misery and injustices that these bring will bear more onerously upon the Canadian people than a sharp increase in taxation would. Taxes are not the worst shape in which war sacrifices can manifest themselves.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

DULL STUFF

THE ALLIED COUNTRIES — and that means every man, woman and child in them—have begun the most remarkable economic process in the history of the world. We are engaged in the process of strangling the economy of Germany, starving it out. We are doing it in two ways—by preventing goods from entering Germany and preventing goods from getting out of Germany. We are going to prevent the German economy breathing in or breathing out. This is certain strangulation, if it works.

This is a good way to win a war and does not cause so much hardship, even among the ill-fated German people themselves, as military campaigns. It is unquestionably the right thing to do now. But the danger of the present process is that we shall come in time to think it is a good thing all the time. The danger is that the insane, cockeyed starvation economics of war will become the normal economics of peacetime as well. And that would mean strangulation for all of us.

LONG BEFORE

IF THAT SOUNDS extreme, consider how the wartime economies began. They began long before the war. For 20 years every nation was engaged, unconsciously often, in the strangulation of its neighbors and in strangulation of trade which alone permits anybody to be prosperous.

In the last few years of peace we did this by almost precisely the same method which we are perfecting now to strangle Germany. We did not use battleships, as we do now, but we accomplished the same result, in less degree, by tariffs, by embargoes and by the new method of barter. Every nation established a lane of trade with certain customers, a closed area which no other outside nation could enter. The Empire trade treaties were part of it.

And once one group of nations made a closed area, that compelled the other nations, thus robbed of their markets, to make a closed area of their own also, until before the war started we had a world of watertight compartments, everybody impoverished, and finally a situation which (with other factors, of course) led to the war.

GERMAN SYSTEM

NOW, DURING THE WAR, we have perfected the system. Britain has put its trade on the German basis. All other nations are doing the same. It is Gresham's old law of money applied to economics—spurious money always debases good money; bad economics undermine and finally wipe out good economics. We are all forced into the German system.

But it is of no permanent use. That is the thing we have to remember and which so many of us forget. If this system is not liquidated after the war, if the closed channels are not opened, if all nations are not free to enter all markets on a competitive basis, it simply means fastening poverty on all of us and it means, of course, creating another war after a short breathing spell.

It means poverty for two reasons: First, because an increase in the production of actual wealth depends on the ability to distribute it throughout the world; second, because in a world of dammed-up trade, exclusive trading arrangements, airtight barter areas, it is necessary to defend your preferred position by huge armies. To protect your preferred position you must spend most of your income on guns and battleships, and that is precisely what we have been building up for 20 years, with the present result. A process forced on us by the totalitarian countries. Good money driven out by bad. Good trade driven out by bad.

CREAT ILLUSION

THE GREAT ILLUSION of Norman Angell, of course, is the theory that somehow, having won the war, we can secure our preferred position; that we can permanently hold the German economic system under and ourselves on top. As Angell says, we can only do that by slaughtering all the Germans in Germany. So long as they are alive they will produce some things more cheaply than we can, if necessary, and offer them to nations that want them. In return for those nations' goods, just as they were doing before the war. And Germany, without any navy to protect its sea lanes, was spreading its spurious barter trade throughout the world, undermining us everywhere, before the war, and can do it again.

Even our battleships cannot stop her. You can't stop goods moving from Germany into Russia, Rumania, Hungary and all the neighboring states by the use of battleships, even if you propose to stop them crossing the sea by force, and to examine every neutral ship carrying German goods.

That indeed is the Great Illusion—the illusion that any part of the world can permanently benefit by the collapse of another part.

There is only one hope for prosperity in the world and for peace lasting more than a few years, and that is to dismantle the system we are building up now as soon as we can. It may look good at the moment, it may seem to give us a preferred position, but in the end it will compel us to fight for it again and again until we are all ruined. The thing to remember is that the process we are engaged on now, the process we were engaged on before the military campaign started, was war, not business. Now, with blocked currencies, barter, embargoes, blockades, it is the most deadly war conceivable.

SELF-SACRIFICING ADOLF

I live day and night with only one idea—to always work for and, if necessary, give my life for German victory. —Adolf Hitler.

Japan's Division of China Settles 'War of Wangs'

Wang Ching-wei: His Japanese star is in the ascendancy. Wang Keh-min: He becomes a secondary puppet.

This is how China will be governed under the Wangs, both operating under Japanese auspices, with the present Chinese government keeping what it can of the rest.

THE BATTLE of the Wangs is ended. By one move in her intricate game of Chinese checkers, Japan has divided her government in China between two puppets—each named Wang—and saved the faces of both.

The first of the Wangs on the scene was Wang Keh-min, who was set up by the Japanese two years ago to rule his fellow Chinese in the north of China.

The second is Wang Ching-wei, who inaugurated "a new National Government" over all China under Japanese auspices March 30. Of course, Chiang Kai-shek continues his rule of unconquered portions of China, but the Japanese ignore that.

PEIPING WANG GRANTED AUTONOMY

Conflict over overlapping rule of the two Wangs was sidestepped by the Japanese when it was announced that the three rich northeastern provinces of Hopei, Shantung and Shansi have been granted autonomy and will continue under control of a commission headed by Wang Keh-min, operating his seat of government at Peiping.

Peiping Wang has been a well-behaved puppet since horth China was first conquered. The government he heads has made considerable progress. Wang has been a valuable friend to the Japanese, an able financier, possesses huge wealth and prefers power to money. He has cost little and has been handy to have around.

But conquest of large parts of south China made it desirable for the Japanese to set up another government.

Wang Ching-wei, renegade from Chiang Kai-shek, was chosen to head it. His show, staged beneath protecting Japanese bayonets, carries the title of "National Government of China."

NEW RULER BRANDED TRAITOR

This second Wang is a power in China. Educated in Japan, he became an ardent supporter of the Chinese republic, tried to assassinate a prince-regent, was a loyal disciple and confidant of China's great Dr. Sun Yat-sen.

THE RIGHTS OF BRITAIN

From Evening News (London)

If there is one thing certain and established in this war it is that Britain has not deliberately taken a single neutral life or sunk a single neutral ship; and yet notes of protest have been as thick in Whitehall as scarce in the Wilhelmstrasse.

The newest of them, from Italy, invites the answer that Britain has her rights as well—the rights of a nation fighting for her life against an enemy who knows no laws.

What are the facts of the case? They are brief and simple. From the day when war began the Nazis did their evil best to sink every ship, Allied or neutral, which was bound for our ports or sailing from them. Our reply was plain. It was to close the sea-gates to all goods made in Germany, and so prevent the Nazis from getting gold for them.

We have done our best to soften inconveniences to neutrals.

Neither Wang wanted to give in. Japan needed the friendship and help of both. Installation of the second Wang's government at Nanking was delayed long after its original scheduled date until now the new autonomy move saves both their places in the Oriental sun.

FOR OUR FIGHTING BOYS
To the Editor:—On April 15 the national campaign of the Y.M.C.A. to raise funds for its war work will be undertaken.

A committee has been organized in Victoria and will commence its campaign next week. The work of the Y.M.C.A. among His Majesty's forces is a significant one in keeping up the spirits of the men, and the people of Victoria will, I hope, give every support to this campaign.

Conservatives Plan New Organization

Conservatives will meet May 1 to form a Provincial Conservative Association in the new riding of Victoria. It was decided at an executive meeting last night, under the chairmanship of W. H. M. Haldane. The new organization will be known as the Victoria

District Conservative Association.

The draft of the new constitution and by-laws will be prepared by R. H. Hiscocks, William Duck, Hubert Lethaby and Mr. Haldane. The present association, it was explained, was federal. The new provincial riding of Victoria, like the next election, will have different ridings and the new association will meet these changes.

The executive passed a hearty vote of commendation to Brig. J. Sutherland Brown, Conservative candidate in the recent federal election. Members congratulated him on the splendid showing he made in the election, and on his sweep across Canada. The executive passed a resolution of appreciation to Dr. R. J. Manion.

Victorian Invents New Type Window

Charles Walkden, Victoria man who built Patio Court in Oak Bay, has invented a window that promises to prove attractive to houses and hospitals because of two important features.

Mr. Walkden claims his new style window uses 90 per cent of the opening for unobstructed sunrises instead of the 80 per cent of the old-style casements; provides a more unobstructed view and does not interfere with flyscreens or blinds.

Another great feature is the windows can be cleaned from the inside of the room, avoiding the danger of climbing outside and holding by a strap.

His working model shows that these important improvements have been made, while simplicity in structure has been preserved.

MISS ANNIE HARVEY DIED YESTERDAY

Member of Victoria Pioneer Family Passes on Mainland

VANCOUVER (CP)—Miss Annie M. E. Harvey, former resident of Victoria and one of British Columbia's earliest citizens, died here yesterday. She was the last of a family of seven, being the only girl.

Miss Harvey was born at sea, off the coast of California, on the Hudson's Bay Company ship Pruth, while her parents were emigrating from Bury St. Edmunds to Victoria in 1861. Her father was for many years connected with the firm of Turner, Beeton and Company of Victoria.

She spent her early days at Victoria, later going to England for her education. On her return she lived with her parents at the old family home near Government House in Victoria.

Miss Harvey returned to England after the death of her parents and later traveled extensively on the continent. In later years she spent her time between Vancouver and Victoria.

Her six brothers were in business throughout the province. The eldest, James, was accountant at the British Columbia Penitentiary at New Westminster for many years, while the youngest brother, R. G. Harvey, was the first bank clerk in Vancouver, with the old Bank of British Columbia.

Oliver Harvey operated the firm of Harvey, Bailey Limited at Ashcroft, and Henry was at one time postmaster at Enderby, spending all his time in the interior.

Another brother, George Harvey, worked in the firm of his father at Victoria, while Edward

A. Harvey was connected with the timber and mining industries in the interior and northern British Columbia.

Funeral services will be held here Friday and interment will take place at Victoria the same day.

Cage Champs To Break Up

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

THROUGHOUT western Canada Tuesday night, there were thousands of disappointed hockey fans. Fourth game of the Stanley Cup world hockey series was in progress in Toronto and not on the national network. It is hard to understand the position of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in not making arrangements to handle such a program. Hockey interest in Canada is at fever pitch and after listening to the programs scheduled on the network during the game, we cannot see why the air could not have been cleared for the hockey broadcast.

It is seldom that Canada has the opportunity to stage a world championship playoff, in any branch of sport, and when it does, one would think the national radio hook-up would see fit to put it on the air. Can you imagine the United States radio systems not handling the world baseball series? If they did pass up such a major broadcast there would certainly be a holler and cry from the listening public.

No doubt fans in western Canada had much the same experience as the writer. Having to be satisfied with the score every 10 minutes or so, broadcast by short wave from Winnipeg. Then we were lucky to get the meagre score above the crackling and interference on the high metre band. It made one get a little warm under the collar to take our hockey under such terrible conditions while the national network station was blasting forth a musical program of no importance from New York.

Getting back to hockey, we find the Leafs and Rangers ready to start all over again, their series deadlocked at two wins each. It is now a case of a best-of-three playoff with the clubs to take the ice tonight for all-important fifth battle. Sixth game is set for Saturday night and the seventh, if necessary, Tuesday.

Supporters of the Toronto club are riding high these days. They are boasting of two more straight games to clinch the series. Majority of the Ranger followers are content to sit back and wait. They are not downhearted but, a little element of doubt has crept into their minds over the final outcome.

One thing is certain. Toronto players played their hearts out in the game Saturday and Tuesday. It must have taken plenty out of them. It is not likely they will be able to maintain the same terrific pace. Tonight's game should tell the story. One will remember how the Rangers seemed to falter in the second and third games with Boston and then came on again. They are just as likely to do the same with the Leafs. Of course, we may be calling it the wrong way.

Return of Alex. Shibicky to the Rangers' line-up tonight would make a difference. Although the New York club cannot be seriously hurt by the loss of one player, it means a shifting around of the forwards and breaks up the smooth combination that has featured the Ranger attacks all season. In Tuesday's game Mac and Neil Colville, who form one line with Shibicky, were reported useless partnered with MacDonald or Pike.

Gardiner Again Heads Cricketers

One of the city's most ardent cricket enthusiasts, Postmaster George Gardiner, was re-elected president of the Wednesday Cricket League at its annual meeting held last night in the Colonnade room.

R. Nixon was the selection for vice-president and Percy Shrimpton was returned to handle the secretarial duties of the league for his ninth consecutive term.

According to discussion last night there is a possibility of a five-team league being operated this season. Army and navy are expected to enter teams, along with Five C's, Hudson's Bay and Victoria. Word from the services as to whether they will be able to enter for league play is expected next week.

Final closing date for entries was set for Wednesday, May 13. Applications are being received by Shrimpton.

EDMONTON (CP)—J. Percy Pages, famed Edmonton Grads, recognized as the best women's senior basketball team in the world which has compiled one of the most outstanding records in the annals of major sport will disband and retire June 6, after their 25th anniversary celebrations here.

Lack of financial support and competition in Canada and extra duties the silver haired mentor will have as a member of the Alberta legislature were reasons behind the Grads' decision to "fade out," made at a special meeting here last night. Page's eight players will not join other teams nor play basketball after June 6, Page said.

Page, one of five Edmonton members in the legislature, has been a basketball genius ever since the day he took a charge of the MacDougall Commercial High School Girls' team here in 1914 and the Grads first senior quintette in 1915.

Grads players, all but two of whom have graduated through the school's junior, senior and Gradedettes. Intermediate teams, won every one of 54 series for the Underwood women's international trophy, have never lost a Canadian championship series, and were victorious in all 27 games played during four sets of Olympic Games at Paris in 1924, Amsterdam, 1928, Los Angeles, 1932, and Berlin in 1936.

Though Grads have held the Underwood trophy continuously since it was donated in 1922, they have been North American champions only since 1934, losing the first North American competition in 1933 to Durant "Cardinals."

Since the start of women's Canadian championships in 1922, Grads won 13 titles, on four occasions they did not attempt to win, and in 1939 they were declared Canadian opeh champions, which gave the senior A titlists, Calgary Buffaloes, the right to challenge for the open crown. Calgary, however, did not challenge.

But before Grads retire, Page said he expects the 1940 senior A champions, to be crowned in Vancouver later this month, will challenge them for the open title early in May.

In 29 Dominion final games, Grads won 27 and lost two, with the average score a game being 44.6 points for Grads and 19 for the opposition. In the first series with London "Shamrocks," Grads dropped the first game, played under girls' rules, 21 to 8, and they were the underdogs in only one of the remaining contests played under boys' rules, losing to Toronto "Lakesides" 24 to 19, in 1926.

Between 1922 and the end of 1937, latest compiled records of Grads Underwood play, they won 88 of 91 games, and had a point average per game of 44 against 21 for the visitors. Grads lost one game each to Tulsa Stenos, Eldorado Oilers and Chicago Taylor Trunks.

OLYMPIC WINS
The most one-sided victories, however, were posted during the Olympic series where Grads reached 100 points or more a game on two occasions. They downed a Paris team in 1928 by the score of 109 to 20, and a London team 100 to 2 in 1932. Grads average was 69 for against 11 points a game for the opposition, including the battle with a Prince Rupert young men's quintet in 1932 that ended 32 to 26 for the Edmontonians.

In Grads history which began after Page came here from Hamilton, Ont., the various Grads teams have played 540 games and won 516. The genial coach has missed only three Grads practices in the 25 years.

Credit for continued success of Grads despite changing personnel belongs to Page. His organization ability and skill at teaching and his insistence on constant drilling around the basket have made his players deadly snipers. Seldom has a Grads team's shooting average fallen below 33.13 per cent, even against the toughest United States squads.

Of the 38 players that have made up various Grads quintets, only Gladys Fry and May Brown failed to graduate through the farm clubs, starting with the two MacDougall School teams, and then advancing to Bill Tai's Gradedettes, Grads understudies.

Perhaps the most outstanding star developed by Page was Miss Noel MacDonald, who won the Rose Bowl Trophy, emblematic of Canada's outstanding feminine athlete for 1938. She was a member of the team from 1933 until 1939. In the 1937-38 season she scored 236 points in 15 games against the best teams in Canada and the United States. Miss MacDonald was the team's captain at that time.

Expensive 'Uncle'

Costs Mr. Dean $100

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Dizzy Dean, who changes his mind faster than he ever changed his pitching pace, canceled a mid-night train reservation and guessed he'll stay over today, to watch his Chicago Cubs play an exhibition game against Pittsburgh's Pirates.

"I'm going to sit in the stands, eat peanuts and enjoy myself just like any other fan."

Old Diz beamed. He was feeling good after a chicken dinner, topped off by a beer or two. He apparently forgot that he was fined $100 and ordered by manager Charles Hartnett to go on to Chicago.

Hartnett, apparently irked more by the telephone calls on Dean's latest screwball antics caused him than by the pitcher's actual offence, suddenly was neither jovial nor glib.

Kenora Juniors Whip Edmonton

WINNIPEG (CP)—Kenora Thistles deadlocked the best of five western junior hockey championship series here last night by defeating the 1939 western champions, Edmonton Athletic Club, 3 to 1 before a capacity crowd of 5,000.

Edmonton took the series lead in the first two games in the Alberta capital where the first was tied 2 to 2 and Athletics won the second 7 to 1 in a Saturday night contest marred by several outbreaks of fighting.

The clubs are battling for the right to meet Oshawa Generals, eastern champions for a third consecutive year, in the Memorial Cup final to be played in the west. Edmonton lost to Oshawa in the national final at Toronto last year.

The western series will be completed here tomorrow and Saturday.

All three Kenora goals last night were scored in the first period, the second and third coming while defencemen Graham Barker of Edmonton was serving a penalty. Ken (Beans) Reardon, Athletics defenceman who was an outstanding attacker, scored the lone Edmonton goal late in the third period on a beautiful solo rush.

OSHAWA IN FINAL

MONTREAL (CP)—Oshawa Generals entered the Memorial Cup final for the third year in succession last night as they defeated Verdun Maple Leafs 4 to 0 to win the eastern Canada junior hockey championship in two straight games.

Generals, who won the first game 6 to 3 at Toronto, showed polish all the way that Verdun seemed unable to match. Although outplayed in the first session, the Memorial Cup champions of last year took a 1 to 0 lead and finished the scoring with three goals in the second period.

FLORIDA BETTING

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP)—Florida's racetracks were closed for the season today.

A total of $64,388,377 streamed through betting windows at horse and greyhound tracks and the Miami jai alai fronton during the season ending yesterday, the biggest take since pari-mutuel wagering was legalized in Florida. It came from 2,517,436 customers.

The trouble all started in Wichita. "No one knows when it will end, or how."

"Who cares?" snapped Hartnett.

Dizzy told interviewers at Topeka he spent Tuesday night visiting an uncle, Rev. Bland Dean, who lives 14 miles from Wichita.

"I knew I was going to be a little late (to catch the Cubs' special), so I tried to telephone Hartnett. I couldn't get him."

He caught a later train and arrived 30 minutes behind the Cubs.

His uncle said: "I didn't see Dizzy. He didn't show up."

Dean slipped in his fast one: "Aw, I didn't say my uncle. I said my nephew. Any of the boys'll tell you I was with him."

Said Hartnett: "$100 fine and home to Chicago."

Toronto and Rangers in Important Fifth Battle

Alumni Ready For Grid Final

Light field workouts each night this week, rounded off with a chalk talk tomorrow night, should have coach Jim Smith's champion V.H.S. Alumni grid machine well lubricated for their big game Saturday against Vancouver Meralomas.

The British Columbia championship fixture will be played at Macdonald Park at 3. It will be preceded by a Midget League final between St. Louis College and Centrals at 1:30.

According to Don Douglas, inside wing last year for Vancouver Knights of Columbus, "Big Four" League team, after witnessing Alumni in action against Fairfield Blue Devils in the city final last Saturday, the local champs should be able to take the Meralomas into camp.

Despite their lack of weight, Alumni has all the speed in the world coupled with a good fighting spirit and backed up by the spectacular punting abilities of Vic Dale. The line is fast on the charge and should be able to beat Meralomas' heavier front-line lads to the draw.

FIRST STRING

The first-string line is centred by George Harknett, 165 pounds, a hard-hitting defensive player who started the season playing in the backfield; insides are Do-Do McKay, 165, a hard worker, and Pud Pridham, 155, the hard-charging lineman in the line; middles are Pete Pearce, 165, the only lineman who scored a try this season, and Clarence Otke, 180, who has plenty of ability but has yet to give; ends are Ben Acreman, 170, a top-notch player if he could snag passes, and "Rube" Price, 155, a scrappy player and hard tackler.

Bob Webster, 155, is first-string quarterback, a cool-headed boy who knows the game. First-string halfbacks are Sam James, 158, a strong defensive player, and Ernie Elford, 150, a boy who takes passes like a veteran and is on all the plays; left back is Austin Cullin, 180, an all-round athlete who has taken the game in his stride; and in the centre half slot is Dale, 185, triple-threat.

The second string follows:

Centre, Roy McKay, 190, who is fast becoming one of the finest players on the squad; insides, Abe Price, 157, a hard charger, Gabby Preston, 140, light but fast and wiry, and Pat Martin, 175, a hard worker who is fairly new to the game; middles, John McKay, 165, a hard tackler, and Pat Whitfield, 175, a strong defensive player and good blocker; ends, Red Richards, 156, a hard worker; quarterback, Red Bate-man, 140, light and fast and can call them; halfbacks, Byron Price, 165, fast and tricky, and Weed Smith, 155, a battler.

Baseball Gossip

WASHINGTON—Old-time fans who remember Ricardo Torres as a catcher for the Nats back in 1920-23 may see his son in action this year on Washington's twirling staff. Gilbert Torres, a tall, roly-poly person, came to camp, replaced the best third-sacker in Cuba. But he went to work as a pitcher and demonstrated a good knuckle ball that has made manager Bucky Harris heighten his interest.

LYNCHBURG, Va.—That "break-up-the-Yankees" business may have something to it after all. Joe Gordon's sprained ankle is worse than was thought and he may not be able to open the season at second base. Reserve outfielder Jake Powell crashed into a steel fence at Ashland, Ky., and suffered a brain concussion. He'll be in a hospital three or four days. In addition Lefty Gomez has a bruised knee.

DANVILLE, Va.—The biggest worry New York Giants have right now is Mel Ott, their veteran outfielder. One of the slugger champions of the National League for years, he has appeared considerably slower this spring and has an average of exactly 200 for 13 hits in 65 times at bat. He went hitless yesterday against the Cleveland Indians.

LYNCHBURG, Va.—Some things change but Brooklyn Dodgers—never. What other ball club could hold the world championship New York Yankees to two hits and lose 7 to 6, or let a foe score six runs in one inning on one hit, a single, which led off the inning? Well, the Dodgers can and did yesterday. They had played 41 innings without an error, then made two in one frame.

'Y' SWIM CLUB NAMES CAPTAIN

At a meeting of the Y.M.C.A. Swimming Club last evening, following the regular workout in the association pool, Don Davidson, popular backstroke specialist, was elected men's team captain, to succeed Miles McLeod.

The president of the club, George Morgan, was in the chair and during the evening a presentation of a silver tray was made to Mr. and Mrs. Bob Smith, members who were married last week.

A report on the aquacade which was held recently at the Crystal Garden was given. The show was one of the most successful undertakings of the club.

Plans were discussed to hold a dance in early summer.

The practice session which preceded the meeting included conditioning of the team which will take part in the annual Y.M.C.A. Pacific northwest championships in Seattle Saturday.

Chicago Wins Deciding Tilt

VANCOUVER (CP)—Chicago Black Hawks defeated Vancouver Lions 7 to 3 in the fifth and final game of an exhibition series between the National Hockey League and the Pacific Coast League champions, before a packed house here last night.

The win gave Hawks the series three games to two. Vancouver won the first two games. Both teams played on an even basis in the first period, but a barrage of goals in the second period sent Hawks into a 5 to 3 lead. Chicago chalked up two more in the final period, one half-way through and the other 30 seconds from time, while holding Lions scoreless.

Nazis Celebrate Norway Battles

BERLIN (AP)—Amid German celebration of alleged "victory" over British forces in protection of the Nazi foothold in Scandinavia there appeared today a hint that newly-occupied bases might be used for bombing attacks on the United Kingdom.

The Berlin newspaper Lokal Anzeiger declared that Germany, after having "successfully repulsed" a British destroyer attack on the Norwegian port of Narvik, "will not permit herself to be attacked continuously in Denmark and Norway."

The newspaper added that all the possibilities which these areas offer will be employed "for the defence of northern Europe and for the protection of the two occupied countries."

Meanwhile the accumulation of reports on Germany's far-flung Scandinavian operations filled in a startling picture of the Nazi swoop on Denmark and Norway. Evidence from authoritative sources indicates that the German movement on Norway and Denmark was not a suddenly conceived blow but a plan designed over several days to "circumvent" what was claimed to be a British intention to use the northland as a base for attack against the Reich.

The presence of German troops and ships as far north as Narvik, hundreds of miles north of the nearest German port, so quickly on the heel of the first announcement of intent to "protect" Norway and Denmark was noted.

Eagles Celebrate 41st Anniversary

Lodge Happy Over New Clubrooms

"This is indeed a proud and glorious occasion to me. At last the wish of my dreams has been realized. For the first time in our 41 years' history we can at last call these clubrooms our very own," said Frank LeRoy, eight times president of Victoria Aerie, No. 12 of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, in an address at the 41st annual banquet of the organization held last night in the new clubrooms, 751 View Street.

One hundred and twenty-five members, their wives and lady friends, attended this anniversary gathering, which was also for the purpose of celebrating the taking over of the new headquarters building. This is adjacent to the Moltre Hotel on View Street, the whole building now being the property of the Eagles. It was purchased by the fraternal order for $10,500 late last year and promises to make pleasant clubrooms. As yet it has not been converted for that purpose but this will be done shortly.

Following a sit-down supper the large floor was cleared and the gay hours of the morning to the strains of a four-piece orchestra. It was a fairly young crowd, with a few veteran members in evidence, everybody thoroughly enjoying themselves.

David Essler, president, presided over the evening's program.

Mr. LeRoy, who has held an official position in the lodge from its inauguration to the present date—he is at present treasurer—was the only speaker. He spoke of the difficulty the lodge had had to secure permanent clubrooms here during its lengthy career and he was certainly glad that members had a roof over their heads now that was theirs for keeps. During the two score and one years the aerie changed headquarters seven times and spent many thousands of dollars making them into clubrooms. "Thank God we have stopped spending money on other people's property. We can spend it on our own now," he said.

"NONE BETTER THAN EAGLES"

The speaker then gave the gathering a resume of the history of the Fraternal Order of Eagles. There was no fraternal order better than the Eagles, he said. "There might be some to equal it, but none better."

He told how the order here and in the United States had pioneered such social welfare plans as old age pensions, workmen's compensation and mothers' pensions. "We spent thousands of dollars in the United States to educate the people to the value of these welfare moves. We are now operating an expensive office in Washington, D.C., for the purpose of securing legislation to stabilize employment. If we put it over it will be a wonderful thing," Mr. LeRoy said he wouldn't even attempt to give a complete picture of the fine work the Eagles were doing throughout the country, saying it was too long a job. But he did pick out some of the highlights, among which was that the order was at the present time spending $100,000 constructing additions to Father Flannigan's famous Boys' Town.

Mr. LeRoy told the story of how the Eagles were formed in Seattle in 1889, how the movement spread like wildfire throughout the country. There were 100 branch lodges in the first year. The order was only two years old when it could count 500 branches. Today it could boast 600,000 members in Canada and the United States. "And the membership is gaining year by year. Why? Because of the good work it does."

HOW ORDER STARTED HERE
Nine months after the inception of the order, the speaker

DAVID ESSLER
President

BILL BRIDGEWOOD
Vice-president

said, the Victoria branch came into being through the efforts of Seattle, Vancouver officials and a few interested Victorians. The inauguration of the local branch took place in the present headquarters of the Salvation Army on Broad Street. On the weekend it was formed 40 members were signed up.

Mr. LeRoy said he was one of three persons still living who helped in the formation of the Victoria aerie. The others are J. M. Hughes, who was the first president, and Henry Siebenbaum.

He told of the progress of the unit in the years that passed. Today the Eagles are better fixed financially than ever before. They had money in the bank and clubrooms fully paid for. "Just tell me a dozen other lodges that can boast that," he said and, in conclusion, added, "We are in excellent condition. Nothing can stop our progress."

SHAW FESTIVAL COMING ON RADIO

The annual U.B.C. radio drama workshop, sponsored by the Department of University Extension under Dr. G. M. Shrum, director, and by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, will this year present two programs. The first, which would be a "theatrical highlight" anywhere, has been made possible by the personal consent and generosity of one of Great Britain's foremost playwrights.

Permission to produce the plays was granted personally by Mr. Shaw to Miss Dorothy Somerset of the Department of University Extension after she had written to him describing the work of amateur dramatic groups in rural districts. The members of these groups will constitute Mr. Shaw's audience, and it is to them that the following broadcasts are dedicated.

The plays to be presented are "The Dark Lady of the Sonnets," "The Six of Calais," and "Great Catherine."

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will carry the broadcasts over its western network to all outlying districts. The dates and times for the broadcasts are as follows:

"The Dark Lady of the Sonnets," Friday, May 3, 8.9 p.m. P.S.T.

"The Six of Calais," Friday, May 10, 8.9 p.m. P.S.T.

"Great Catherine," Friday, May 17, 8.9 p.m. P.S.T.

All amateur groups interested in this "Shaw Festival" are invited to register at once with the Department of University Extension. There is no registration fee.

Mimeographed material will be sent from the department to all registered listening groups. It will include a biography of Mr. Shaw and descriptions of the historical and social backgrounds of the three plays.

GESTURE OF APPRECIATION

At the conclusion of the broadcasts a map of western Canada, with the names of all listening groups marked upon it, will be sent to Mr. Shaw. This will be in the nature of a "thank you" for his generous permission to produce the plays, and it will also give him a sense of personal contact with all the members of his far-flung audience.

Arbitrators Named

Dr. George F. Davidson, head of the Provincial Social Service Department; Reeve A. D. Paterson of Delta, and Edward H. Bridgman of Victoria, were this week, by provincial order-in-council, appointed the board of arbitration of the Residency and Responsibility Act.

They will rule on disputes between municipalities where responsibility for health, relief and other social services is in doubt.

Dr. Davidson was nominated by the Provincial Secretary, Reeve Paterson by the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, and Mr. Bridgman was nominated by Dr. Davidson and Reeve Paterson.

The amendment to the act, seeking to settle municipal differences in respect to indigents, was passed at the last session of the Legislature.

The arbitrators will serve without remuneration but traveling and other personal expenses will be paid by the province.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE, with Major Hoople

OUT OUR WAY—

By Williams

Uncle Ray

Bantus Obtain Wives By Gifts of Cattle

If you were in south central Africa, you might hear a man say: "Aba fasi betu abahle bayase benza." That is an example of the speech of one of the Bantu tribes. The words mean, "Our good women are working."

Bantu men in front of house.

There are many Bantu tribes, and they speak scores of languages. The languages are more or less alike, and seem to have come from a single "root language."

Most Bantus are farmers or cattle raisers. They are pleased with their wives only when the wives do a full share of work in the fields.

The old native custom of Bantu men is to give cattle to the fathers of women they marry. One or two cows may be given by a poor man for a bride. A rich man may turn over half a dozen cattle, or more, to the bride's father.

That custom is almost like buying a wife with money. It may make us think of the dowry in civilized countries, but the dowry is the other way around. The bride's father gives the bridegroom a sum of money, as a help for the new family.

The Bantus who give cattle for their wives know what they are doing. A wife is useful to them in caring for their livestock, and in raising crops.

Another point about the plan is its help to the father-in-law. He may need a few extra cattle to meet the needs of his old age.

If a Bantu woman leaves her husband, the father-in-law must give back the cattle. This is likely to put him in a hard place. Perhaps he has sold the cattle, and must obtain other cattle to return to his daughter's husband.

Bantu couples, however, usually get along well enough. They take up life in a hut of their own, and care for their fields and their children.

Some Bantu homes have cone-shaped roofs. Others are of a form which has caused them to be compared to beehives.

The huts are of one story, but may rise to a height of from 9 to 15 feet. They usually are made of wickerwork and reeds or long grass. They are held up by strong poles. Often the only "windows" are doorways.

In some places where the natives have had dealings with whites, the huts are square and have walls made with sun-baked bricks. The roofs of such huts may be thatched, or may be made with boards.

HOROSCOPE

Friday, April 12

This is an unimportant day in planetary government. Adverse aspects are mostly active. The evening should be fortunate for conferences or pursuits requiring alertness of mind.

There is mild promise today for meetings with new friends of opposite sex. Young folk may look forward to pleasant hours in social entertainments. Dances are under good direction of the stars.

The evening hours are beneficial to home hospitalities in which men and women enjoy informal discussions of current topics. Contacts with persons of wealth and influence should be especially fortunate.

Theatres and their management are to fall under public notice by a general demand for amusement at low rates. Motion pictures will gain in patronage despite suasions unfavorable to large profits. Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—I have been married less than a year to a man 15 years my senior. I am 36. He is a good provider. He is strong and healthy and doesn't have to work. Sits around the house all day. Doesn't even go out for a little air. Sleeps until 11.30 and expects his breakfast to be waiting for him the moment he makes his appearance. Doesn't believe in love. Doesn't like shows or the radio. No use for dogs. Kicks every one that comes across his path. He is as cold as steel. Curses if the slightest thing goes wrong. Never looks at me. Never addresses a word to me. He has got me so nervous that I cannot act natural. Is there a solution to this mess?

ANSWER: Are there no railroad trains out of your town?

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—Is it true that husbands and wives who are direct opposites get along much better in marriage than those who are alike?

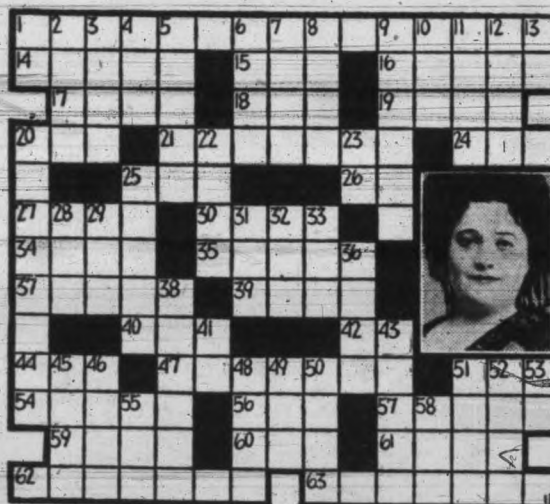

TOM AND SALLY.

ANSWER: So far as physical characteristics are concerned it does not matter whether tall people marry each other or midgets in determining their happiness together. But when it comes to the mental and spiritual qualities of men and women it is a different matter, and undoubtedly the most successful marriages are those in which like marries like.

The chief thing in promoting domestic bliss is congeniality. The ideal home is a place of peace and harmony. That can only exist where the husband and wife think alike, have the same tastes and aspirations and see life from the same point of view.

Alec Templeton Thrills Crowd

By M. A.

A capacity audience that overflowed to the stage of the Royal Victoria Theatre last night had a wonderful evening of first class entertainment with Alec Templeton, the remarkable blind pianist who has made a name for himself over the Hollywood radio.

As he was led to the stage by an attendant, Mr. Templeton was met with a burst of applause from the great audience, most of whom are ardent followers of his Monday evening program.

It is amazing to see Mr. Templeton's fingers move over the piano, when it is realized he has never seen, can not learn his numbers like an ordinary person, but must hear someone else play them and then memorize. That is why he has improvised such a great deal, and arranged many of his own pieces, mixing popular melodies with the classics and generally amusing himself and great audiences as well.

He devoted the first half of his program to Bach, Beethoven, Rachmaninoff, Debussy and Chopin, playing his own arrangement of Bach's Toccata and Fugue, and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," arranged by Myra

Hess. Perhaps the most enjoyable of this group was Debussy's "La Cathedrale Engloutie."

But it was in his second half that Mr. Templeton thrilled the radio fans and proved himself an entertainer par excellence. He played his own composition, mimicked great radio personalities (Walter Damrosch and Milton Cross), sang and played "South of the Border," as it might be done at the Metropolitan Opera. Most tuneful was his interpretation of clocks—a clock in a church tower and his Westminster chimes. He asked for five notes from the audience and then improvised on them, as Mozart, Stephen Foster and George Gershwin might have done. He played the "Stars and Stripes" march as Strauss might have composed it, and the "Blue Danube" as it might have been composed by Sousa.

During the intermission Gordon Hilker of Hilker Attractions announced next season's attractions—Richard Crooks, the Balle Russe de Monte Carlo, Vronsky and Babin, a two-piano team, the Don Cossack Chorus and Mischea Elman.

Annual Contest Of Orators Held

Miss Olive Walsh and Barrie Gault were named winners of the annual Y.M.C.A. oratorical competition held at a banquet sponsored by the Toastmasters' Club in the association dining hall last evening. More than 70 members and guests of "Y" public speaking groups attended.

J. B. Clearhue was chairman during the evening and E. E. Gregg acted as toastmaster.

Dr. S. J. Willis, superintendent of education, presented Miss Walsh with the Mallek Challenge Cup as winner of the women's division of the contest, and Mr. Gault, the Rose Challenge Trophy as winner of the men's division.

Prior to naming the contest winners and making the presentations, Dr. Weir gave a brief talk in which he spoke of public speaking training as an important aspect of adult education.

"In the next 10 to 20 years, work in adult education will be the most important part of education," Dr. Weir declared. "It is institutions like the Y.M.C.A. that carry such an important part in that work."

He praised the work of Frank Paulding, general secretary of the association, who conducts the public speaking classes.

Brief addresses were given also by Mr. Clearhue, Mr. Paulding and Alex. McCabe, deputy district governor of the Toastmasters' Club.

COMPETITIVE ADDRESSES

The competitive addresses were from five to seven minutes in length. A. McDermid acted as timekeeper.

Miss Walsh of the Speakers' Club used the title, "This Golden Age."

This was rather a strange subject to use with such strife in the world today, Miss Walsh said. It could be applied to any age, though, if one looked at the doughnut rather than the hole.

She spoke of the Dominion youth training project in force throughout Canada, leading up to a course in salesmanship which the project offered girls in Victoria.

The Rotary Club slogan, "He profits most who serves most," was the nucleus of the course, she said.

"Co-operation between the bureau in charge of the training and the businessmen is needed so that we can make this a golden age for the youth of Canada," she concluded.

Mr. Gault, also of the Speakers' Club, spoke on "Law and Order." The two pillars of state were law and order, the speaker said, after relating stories of keeping the law during the early days of Canada and British Columbia.

Laws were made by the government—made by men elected by the people. Those people should abide by the rules.

OTHER CONTESTANTS

Competing against Miss Walsh was Miss Nellie Savin of the Friday night public speaking class. Miss Savin spoke on the subject, "Should Women Work?"

One-fifth of the women of the United States were employed, one-half of which were totally supporting dependents. With the country at war, people should be glad that there were girls who could do the work of men.

Competing against Mr. Gault were Len Cox of the Toastmasters' Club, and Harry Garland of the Tuesday night public speaking class.

Mr. Cox used as his subject, "Reciprocity for Canadians." A great benefit to Canada would be a wider application of reciprocity between the people of the various provinces and towns of the Dominion, he said.

Mr. Garland spoke on "Cultivation of Memory." Three applications of memory were impression, repetition and association. In demonstrating the application of association in memory, the speaker mentioned several names of people present who had been self-introduced previously, connecting their names with some familiar institution or organization. He remembered that there was a Mr. Lockhead present because he connected the name with the bombing plane manufacturers; a Mr. Ridgeway was remembered because he connected the name with a brand of tea.

"The average man doesn't use more than 10 per cent of his natural memory," the speaker said and advised the reading of Dale Carnegie's book on public speaking.

Judges for the competition were: Women, Miss A. Creaser, Miss N. Joyce, and Miss L. Helgesen; men, J. H. Hill, T. G. Denny, Gordon Walsh, Col. Don McGugan, George Morgan and Alex. McCabe.

Canadian Nickel

HELPS KEEP FREIGHT MOVING ON SCHEDULE

RAILROADS in Canada and throughout the Empire are already keyed to the new production tempo. As new demands arise, they must be ready to do their part.

In Canada alone, 25 million dollars worth of railroad equipment is on order. Numerous shops are producing locomotives, and freight and express cars. To make sure that this equipment will spend the maximum amount of time in useful service, and the minimum amount of time in the repair shops, alloys of Canadian Nickel are being used for vital parts.

Nickel Steels and Nickel Cast Irons give greater strength with less weight; stand up under the strains and poundings of constant service; resist the destructive effects of heat, abrasion and corrosion.

And so the railroads, like all branches of Empire industry, are today calling for more and more Canadian Nickel. It is fortunate that, in a crisis like the present, the world's largest reserves of Nickel ore are located in the Empire—in Canada. It is gratifying to know that the Nickel smelting and refining plants have been enlarged and modernized to produce as they have never produced before.
